<h1>Candy Rain: A Weather Phenomenon or A Sickly Sweet Mishap?</h1> Breaking News! Recent sightings of <q>candy rain</q> have been reported by many people all over the city of Los Angeles. Is it some kind of weather phenomena, or a sickly sweet candy mishap? Many people have different thoughts about that. Los Angeles local Billy Graham, who lives in Cantelope Ave. says that the <q>Candy Rain</q> is, and I quote, <q> Some sort of extraterrestrial activity</q>. In a recent interview with Mr. Graham, he says <q>I just think that them alien gods are finally coming to their senses. Who needs rain when we can have candy canes?</q> Other people think otherwise. Marlee Tuna from West Havenhood claims that the candy rain is nothing but a bunch of kids throwing candy from the roofs of their homes. <q>I mean, what else can it be,</q> states Ms. Tuna. <q>You can't possibly think that candy is actually raining!</q>. So there we have it folks! Candy rain.
What is it, and what is the cause? More on this story later.
